

Hopscotch

Game 1

Stories for Children by Older Children

Edited by

Melissa Dunn • Robert Dunne • Bethany Riley
Danielle Smith • Caitlin Tracy • Paul Wind

Hopscotch is a collaborative effort of the Children's Literature authors of James Madison University. It is a collection of stories organized by appropriate age levels with the intentions of broadening the horizons of our readers. These stories will not only develop the children's language and reading development, but will also entertain their imaginations.

Inside, you will find interactive prose and fun stories to read to children of all ages. Hans Christian Andersen, we are not. But like Andersen, the authors of Hopscotch realize that children are our culture's greatest commodity, and they must be cultivated.